

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XXV.

STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, APRIL 17, 1896.

NO. 14

FARM AND TRADE ITEMS.

—German millet seed for sale at B. K. Wearen's.

—Louis Walz bought of John Stephenson some butcher stuff at 24c.

—O. Vandy sold to J. O. Johnson, of Boyle, 22 ewes and 24 lambs for $90.

—I will stand two good jacks at $1 to insure living colts. M. S. Baughman.

—It is reported that E. W. Ayres refused $13,000 for Beniah, the dam of Ben zetta.

—The Pantagraph says G. B. Turley bought four jacks in Madison this week at $137.

—F. M. Ware is in the wool trade again this season. See him before selling and make money.

—B. K. Wearen is headquarters for cultivators, corn planters, harrows, &c. Lowest prices.

—Out of 400 hogs at W. S. McBrayer's distillery, in Anderson county, 250 have died of cholera.

—I will be on the market again this year and will pay you the highest price for your wool. Wm. Moreland.

—Len Hudson is now selling a big lot of hemp seed at $1 a bushel that he bought some time ago at $1.15.

—King Chester did not sell at the Fair-coner & Rue sale and Mr. G. P. Anderson will make another session with him.

—Joe Goode says he set a hen on 17 eggs and she hatched 18 chickens, but to save his life he can't tell which are the twins.

—As usual the INTERIOR JOURNAL leads on horse "ads," but it hasn't got many at that. You should read them before you breed.

—I am in the wool trade and will pay the highest market price. See me before you sell, it will be to your advantage. L. M. Bruce.

—Lost.—Two large black sows, weigh 250 each, tip off end of ear, been gone two weeks. One forward with pig. Any information to their whereabouts will receive liberal reward. E. T. Pence.

—The directors of the Danville Fair met Saturday afternoon and concluded to offer $2,100 in stakes and purses for trotters and pacers in 2:15 to 2:30 at the annual exhibition, which is to begin Tuesday, August 4.—Advocate.

—The attention of our readers is called to the horse advertisements of J. K. Baughman and Baughman Bros. The first named has the speedy Walsingham stallion, Nabob, 2:14, and William L., a model stallion. Both of them are good individuals and breed right. In Morgan Denmark, the Messrs. Baughman have a combination of good breeding, good individuality, style and action. He is one of On Time's best colts, which is saying a great deal.

—The Kentucky Running Association at Lexington will hold its spring meeting beginning April 27th and lasting eight days. Secretary W. C. Lyne has our thanks for complimentary and assurance of good treatment. The breeders' future state, the first and only one ever offered for thoroughbreds in Kentucky, will be on May 24, which will draw a tremendous crowd. Another treat in store for the public is the great starting machine which will be used at this track.

—A negro named Paul Gleason criminally assaulted a 15 year old colored girl near Longdale, Va., and then murdered her. Large bodies of men are securing the mountains in search of the brute. The Longdale turnpike shut down and put all of its men into the mountains after the assassin and if caught he will be lynched.

—At Bottsville, John Hall and his brother, Colonel Hill, engaged in an altercation, during which Colonel drew a dirk knife from his pocket and stabbed his brother several times in the side and abdomen. The wounded man is in a very critical condition.

—The prosecution claims to have evidence that Jackson and Walling were together on the Covington suspension bridge soon after the Pearl Bryan tragedy and that they threw her head into the river.

—The president sent to the Senate nomination of Gov. Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, to be consul general of the United States at Havana, Cuba, vice Ramon O. Williams, resigned.

—William Wasson, a wealthy farmer living near Bristol, Tenn., blew his brains out rather than be tried for the burning of a church of which he was charged.

—Senator Pratt has introduced in Congress a bill prohibiting the transmission of the reports of bets on prize fights and racing from one State to another.

—A baby with two heads, four arms and four legs was born to Mrs. B. McPherson, at Lorain, O. It is alive and gives promise of a long life.

—A judgment of $50,000 obtained against M. K. and T. railroad and others for introducing Texas fever into Kansas, has been affirmed.

—"Be mine," he implored.

—"No," she answered.

—"I won't take no for an answer," he shrieked.

—"Nix, then," she responded.

—And he took his hat and sadly went.—Boston Courier.

LANCASTER, CARRARD COUNTY.

—Elder George Gowen will preach the union sermon Sunday night at the Baptist church.

—There is a rumor that we will have another wedding and from many indications it may be quite soon.

—Aunt Irish Doty, of color, and one of the oldest inhabitants of the county, died at the poor house on Sunday morning.

—Mrs. Josephine K. Henry, of Versailles, will give a free lecture here on Friday night, 24th, on American Citizen ship.

—Shelby Nunn, the slayer of Bill Best, tried to break jail at Lancaster, and was placed in irons. He had succeeded in getting out of his cell.

—The A. F. F. club will not meet this week with Miss Nannie Harris on account of a death in the family. The next meeting will be held in May.

—Marriage license was issued this week for John W. Wheeler to wed Miss Rutt Moberly, which occurred Tuesday at the home of the bride's parents in this county.

—Prof. R. W. Fletcher, of color, who has been the successful teacher of the colored school here, continues to give satisfaction and will in June turn out a number of graduates.

—Misses Sue and Hallie Herring entertained Monday evening in honor of a number of their friends. Both are adept in the business and know how to show true Kentucky hospitality.

—The work on the Methodist church has been resumed and if the pretty weather continues it will go on in earnest. The building promises to be quite a handsome edifice when completed.

—Died, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Robert Turner, Lettie, in the 5th year of her age, after a short illness of typhoid fever. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved mother, who is a widow.

—Mr. Henry Barlow has accepted a position as clerk in Mr. R. H. Batson's store. Mr. Charles Harper, who had the position and filled it so satisfactorily, was compelled to give it up on account of failing health.

—It will interest the friends of Misses Eliza Anderson and Talley Grand, two frequent visitors and much admired young ladies in this community, to know they will be added to the long list of graduates at Hamilton College this commencement.

—On Wednesday afternoon a negro by the name of Jennings became unruly and struck the work-house manager, Mr. Foley, with a shovel. In turn Mr. Foley proceeded to knock him down with a club. It was thought his injury was sufficient to call in a physician, but it was soon discovered it was not of a serious nature.

—Twenty five or more delegates, besides quite a number of visitors, are expected here during the W. C. T. U. convention, which meets with next week. There will be a number of prominent speakers here. The singing will be principally by the little band known as the Loyal Legion, which consists of about 40 members.

—The Lancaster cornet band, ever anxious to make a complete success of their efforts, will do some good practicing for the entertainment we are to have May 1st. To announce who will be the participants in the entertainment is to acknowledge the genuine talent of it: Miss Elvira Sydney Miller, Mrs. John M. Logan, Miss Clyde Huffman and the Lancaster cornet band.

—The following gentlemen went as delegates to the Nicholasville convention: Gen. D. R. Collier, W. McClelland Johnson, Lewis Landrum, W. T. West, Lewis Walker, Capt. Wm. Herndon, W. S. Berkele, Wm. Broadbent, R. C. Bengue, and Ed Ray and Capt. Wm. Herndon, Lewis Walker, W. S. Berkele, Gen. D. R. Collier and Wm. McClelland Johnson to the Louisville convention.

—James I. Hamilton, Lancaster's accommodating postmaster, is the proud possessor of an intelligent dog, a prairie spaniel. Like his master he is fond of money and devotes much of his time playing with it. He had long ago declared himself for "free silver." On Monday while engaged in his usual pastime he swallowed a silver dollar. The money being of heavy weight it is feared by his master that the pet dog's death may result from the amusement. It is likely that laparotomy may have to follow. What town in the State but Lancaster can boast that money is so plentiful!

—Miss Kate and Lillian Kinnaird were visitors of Danville friends this week. Prof. James A. Tate, the temperance lecturer, of Nashville, was entertained during his stay here by his friend, Elder George Gowen. Messrs. W. R. Cook and J. F. Robinson attended the horse show in Danville Monday. Mrs. H. C. Paine, of Athens, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Ann B. Hopper. H. M. Owsley, of St. Louis, was a visitor here this week. Miss Lucile Weisiger is reported sick. George A. McRoberts, of Stanford, was a visitor here Tuesday. A. H. Rice is in Louisville on business.

—Lorenzo Hadd and Cella Stevens, aged respectively four and five years, are dead at Linwood, Mich., from eating wild parsnips.

OF A LOCAL NATURE.

—George Hicks, for killing Lewis Holton last election day, was acquitted at Lawrenceburg.

—Aeron is the name of a new post-office in Pulaski and Mary H. Mayfield is appointed postmaster.

—After being a dry town for many years a vote to license whisky selling is to be taken at Monticello.

—Ex-Sheriff J. L. Manning has been appointed a guard at the Eddyville penitentiary.—Williamsburg Times.

—At Williamsburg, Wm. Kerner's 18-year old son was bitten by a copper-head last Saturday, in the foot, and is in serious condition.

—The murder of Jas. McCreary by Bill and Jas. Britton, on Martin's Fork, in Harlan county, is reported without provocation. The Brittons are in jail.

—The Louisville Banking Company has bought the Manufacturers' Bank at Middleboro. R. G. Ford will be president. The capital stock will be increased to $50,000.

—The residence and barn of James M. Gay, near Lancaster, were burned with about 200 barrels of corn. The house and furniture were valued at $1,500. Total loss about $2,500.

—Corporal James L. Shannon, of the Eighth U. S. Cavalry, formerly of Lincoln county, Kentucky, has been honorably discharged from service on account of failing health.—Advocate.

—The Fidelity Adkins murder trial is set for next Monday at Bourbonville and that of James Sawyer for killing Dr. Burnside for Wednesday. James Leach was given a sentence by the Knox court of two years for larceny.

—On Puckett's Creek, in Bell county, Glen Hinson shot and killed his step-father, Ned Puckett, and wounded his brother. Hinson was using vile language in the presence of his sisters, when Puckett ordered him out of the house.

—Near Lily, Henry Jones, colored, was found lying by the side of the railroad track by Engineer Kearns, with a deep gash in the back of his head. It seems to have been inflicted by some blunt instrument. It is supposed that his body was placed on the track to have the train run over it, but the negro gained consciousness sufficiently to crawl a few feet from it.

LIBERTY, CASEY COUNTY.

—There was great excitement in Mintonville occasioned by a fierce shooting scrape between James W. Aey and Dr. F. M. Taylor. It seems there has been hot blood for some time between the two parties over some goods sold by Aey to Taylor. Rumors are also afloat that Aey accused the doctor of being too intimate with his (Aey's) wife. Aey, with his wife, started to emigrate to Texas, and got as far as Hubards station. Here it is reported that he steamed up on liquor, and brooding over his wrongs or supposed wrongs, concluded to return and kill Taylor before he left. Stationing himself in Jasper's store, he opened fire on Taylor on his first appearance in his front porch on the opposite side of the street. Two pistol shots were fired by Aey when Taylor returned the same number. After firing twice more Aey ran back in the store and grabbed up a shot gun. Taylor ran into his own house and did the same. Jasper ordered Aey out of his store, but Aey refused to go. The excited citizens then surrounded Jasper's store, and the infuriated man was persuaded to surrender, which he agreed to do on condition that Taylor was dismissed. Two of Taylor's friends immediately came to town and got out a warrant from Judge Telford for Aey's arrest who, in the meantime, was put in charge of a citizens' guard. Deputy Sheriff Jim Brown started with the party to take him into custody, but on arrival the bird had flown. The deputy did not learn how he managed to escape whether from carelessness or otherwise.

LATELY.—Since writing the foregoing we learn from good sources that the difficulty was looked for by the citizens; that Aey's wife had confessed the intimacy with Taylor to some other women and that Aey had caught them in suspicious situations once himself. We make this amendment in justice to Aey, as our first statement was based on information obtained from those who were supposed to be his friends of Taylor.

DANVILLE.—The next term of circuit court will be a dull one. The docket contains 48 old ordinary cases, 48 appearances, 169 old equity cases, nine appearances and 60 Commonwealth cases. Elder Jas. L. Allen had eight additions to his congregation at King's Mountain during a recent meeting he conducted there. There have been 72 additions to the Christian church and Eld. Dorris' meeting continues.—County court, circuit court and horse show will draw a big crowd Monday.—Jack Watson has a hen that lays two eggs a day.—Advocate.

CHANGE OF TIME.—The spring and summer schedule of the Queen and Crescent Route will go into effect Sunday, April 19th. Note the changes as shown in Station time cards. W. O. Rinearson, gen'l pass'r agent, Cincinnati, O.

HUSTONVILLE.

—Jesse Dunn is back from the South just in time to tell us how the fresh vegetables taste down there.

—Rev. B. F. Pinkerton was absent last Sunday at a church near Midway at which he preached the dedicatory sermon.

—The ladies of the Presbyterian church organized an aid society last Sunday morning. Mrs. C. C. VanArsdall, pres.; Miss Lucy Alcorn, secretary and treasurer.

—Mrs. Mary Givens improves very slowly. Mrs. Susan Wright is very ill with pneumonia. Mac Steele, little son of I. Steele, has been quite sick with catarrhal fever.

—James T. Cooke, of Harrodsburg, the sarasparilla man, was here Monday looking after the interests of his great medicine and greeting friends. With the 225 pounds of Mr. Cooke behind it to push it the sarasparilla must get a move on itself or something break.

—Remember the lecture tonight at the Presbyterian church for the benefit of the public school, by Prof. Peterman, of Lexington. Most of common school teachers are content to draw their salary at the end of the term and not trouble themselves further and when a teacher like Miss Mary Thomson works in season and out of season to increase the facilities for teaching and to build up the school, she should be encouraged. The proceeds are to be used in buying maps, globes, &c., for use in the school.

—Mr. Charles Wheeler has discovered that the man who broke into his store recently made a greater haul than was at first believed. He finds that the burglar effected an entrance into the lower room of his store and abstracted therefrom among other things, four handsome gold watches, three gents' and one lady's watch, besides a lot of jewelry, cuff buttons, &c. Tuesday a warrant was sworn out and Hannibal Givens was arrested on suspicion. Hannibal stoutly maintains that he was not concerned in the robbery, but he fails to explain how his old suit of clothes happened to be left under Mr. Wheeler's store-room.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Miss Nellie Bailey, aged 40, committed suicide by cutting her throat with a razor at Chagrin Falls, O. She had never had a sweetheart.

—Hon. W. A. Webber, aged 70, and Miss Sallie Dunn, 21, were married at Cynthiana. An anti-nuptial contract provided that the bride shall receive $5,000 in lieu of dower, but if the marriage proves an unfortunate one and a separation follows she will get only $2,500.

—Dr. Lee Clifton Wadsworth, of Newport, and Miss Pinkie Waters Helm were married at the bride's father's, Mr. G. T. Helm, at Danville Wednesday at 1 p. m. Revs. G. W. Perryman and J. W. Lynch officiating. Messrs. Eugene Cook and Wm. McDonald Waters acted as attendants. The newly wedded pair left on the 1:30 train for Newport, where they go to housekeeping at once. The popularity of the bride and groom was attested by the large number of useful and ornamental presents received.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Holy Trinity church and site at Madison Avenue and 42d street, New York City, has been sold for $750,000.

—Rev. S. M. Logan went up to Paint Lick yesterday to assist Rev. A. W. Crawford in a meeting. Dr. Shelton will fill his pulpit here Sunday morning and night.

—Preaching next Sunday morning and night at the Christian church by J. T. Sharrard. Morning subject, "The Bible and its Place in Christianity." Night, "Forbidden Fruit."

—Mr. E. B. Caldwell, of Waynesburg, asks us to say that the semi-annual convention of the Cumberland River Association will convene at Cumberland church in Pulaski on Saturday, May 2.

—The general conference of the M. E. church will convene at Cleveland, Ohio, May 18, and continue in session one month. It is the legislative body of the largest Protestant denomination in the United States, the present membership being 2,700,000 communicants.

—When George O. Weller, a young white man, claiming to be the special correspondent of the Boston Financial and Industrial Record, was found occupying a seat in the parquette with a mulatto woman in the Academy of Music at Richmond, Va., he and she were hustled out so unceremoniously that the Yankee didn't know what had hit him.

—The announcement in the Louisville Post that its capable State news editor, Mr. John W. Harris, is ill, occasions much regret in newspaperdom. Managing Editor Boyle Gill Boyle is doing his work at present, and is as well posted as the next man on State matters.

—It is said 20 farmers brought the tails of 9,171 ground squirrels to the commissioners of Spokane county, Washington, on one day last week to collect the bounty of one cent per tail.

—Secretary Carlisle made a masterly address on sound money to the working men at Chicago.

BRADLEY FIRST.

With McKinley a Close Second.

Another Such Victory and Bradley Is Undone.

A Most Disorderly Convention.

LOUISVILLE, April 16, 3 P. M.—Gov. Bradley won his fight, after a desperate struggle and was instructed for president as first choice, the McKinley men forcing second instructions for their man. The delegates from the State-at-large are L. P. Tarleton, A. R. Burnam, W. J. Deboe and S. E. Smith, the latter colored. The platform declares for protection and the gold standard.

The Republican Convention was called to order in the auditorium at Louisville at 2:30 Wednesday by Hon. John W. Yerkes, who made a speech congratulating the party for having taken Kentucky out of the democratic column and assuring the delegates that a republican is sure to be elected president in November. The first test of strength between Bradley and McKinley came when Judge

JUDGE T. Z. MORROW.

T. Z. Morrow beat George Denny for temporary chairman by 91 votes, amid wild demonstrations by the Bradley men.

The body resolved itself into a riot and open charges were made of the most disgraceful nature. The police had to take a hand several times, but the governor had not been called upon to order out the militia at last accounts. The McKinley men were strong enough to secure an adjournment till yesterday morning, when the battle was again resumed.

The committee on credentials made a report signed by every member of the committee, seating the Bradley delegations from Warren, Pike, Leslie and Edmonson counties and the McKinley delegation from Logan. The Louisville contest was compromised by the contested vote being equally divided between the contestants and contestees. The committee's report was adopted by acclamation by the convention. Hon. Charles Blanford was made permanent chairman of the report of the committee on permanent organization being adopted after a warm fight.

The convention is a very different body to the one that met in the same building last year. Then all the wings had hopped together and harmony lay around in great stacks. Now every other man is charging the other with every sin in the catalogue and every son-of-a-gun seems desirous of getting ahead of every other son-of-a-gun in the grand grab for pie. Then the efforts of the delegates were directed against the common enemy; now each is grabbing at the other's throat and letting the devil take the hindmost. It is a humiliating scene, even for the disreputable party which is responsible for it.

Doctor-Senator Walton has assumed a new role. He opened the convention at Louisville by asking God's blessing on the warring factions.

Wood Dunlap repeated his defense to the republican delegates, trying to induce them not to be too hard on him for refusing to receive a stolen seat in the Legislature and assuring them that he would have taken it if he had seen any chance to use it.

In the selection of the several committees Lincoln county didn't get a smell. This is the way the Eighth showed up: Vice President, E. G. Parish; Resolutions, John Bennett, Permanent Organization, D. R. Collier; Credentials, T. M. Cardwell; Rules, R. T. Amshberry.

The McKinley men charge that Bradley even used his pardoning power to secure votes for his presidential ambition, declining peremptorily to grant pardons to the clients of any lawyer, who opposed him. Law breakers might make a note of this and before engaging an attorney have him give a certificate that he is for Bradley for any and everything now and always, world without end.

The district convention at Nicholasville instructed for Bradley without a second choice. An attempt to get second instructions was made but the great harmonizer, Hon. John W. Yerkes, argued that as this was the governor's own district, it was due him that no second choice be made, and the effort ceased. He and Col. Caperton, who were chosen delegates to the National convention, both told the McKinley men that they would vote for him after Bradley was dropped. The resolutions declared for protection and the gold standard, and after endorsing Bradley's riot alarm and militia call, say his nomination for president would insure Kentucky and several other Southern States to the republicans. Judge Morrow led his brother-in-law's cause in the 11th and got all he went for as he usually does.

The ideas of propriety are very differently developed in Judges Sadler and Morrow. The former has declined ever since he has been on the bench to participate in politics or make political speeches, believing that it is the duty of a judge to keep out of the mire of partisan sloughs. On the other hand, Judge Morrow seems to have no conscientious scruples. He is foremost in county as well as State conventions and doesn't mind taking a hand at anything to help his party along. It is just as a man is raised, however, how he looks upon things.

The Louisville Times suggests as the entire administration at Frankfort is at the Louisville convention and the convicts have the measles, it would be a good time for Jack Chinn to capture the Capitol. These conditions are not necessary to Col. Jack's exploits. Didn't he single handed and alone scare the whole "cahoohle" to death and cause the riot alarm to be rung at the dead of night to call the soldiers out to disperse him? Yes, verily, the colonel need take no steps by stealth. He can capture the Capitol with all the rads on hand.

Gov. BRADLEY secured first instructions for himself for president by the convention at Louisville, but in the shape it is in it is a most empty honor and will profit him nothing. He won't even be consulted as to his second choice and will not be able to command the patronage of his State. McKinley will be nominated on the first ballot and Bradley won't be boss of Kentucky. Roberts, Denny and Hunter will distribute the pie, if a republican is elected.

The old hayseed who warns a seat in Congress from the 2d Kentucky district, one Dr. Clardy by name, is reported one day as saying that Carlisle can carry Kentucky for president and the next day as denying that he said it. But what difference does it make what Dr. Clardy says? The only two things that he does in opening his jaw are to direct attention to his asininity and make people ask who is Clardy any way?

Dr. JAMES, seeing the way that the cat was going to jump, turned his back on his erstwhile friend, Dr. Hunter, and espousing the cause of Bradley, swung Muhlenberg into the governor's column. Dr. Hunter is probably serving his last term in Congress. His pernicious activity against Gov. Bradley has cooked his goose, even at home.

The Courier-Journal suggested in the interest of peace and harmony to the republican pow wow at Louisville, that Bradley and McKinley both be dropped and the Hon. Wood's Dunlap be endorsed for president, but the editor being persons non grata, the suggestion was not seized upon.

Crier's throat got well and he tackled Hoke Smith again, but the effort was too great. His heart, like his courage, failed him and obliging physicians advised him to give up the debates. The effort to argue for free silver will cause even the stoutest heart to give signs of failure.

Richmond still runs sun time. The old town is far in the rear in many things, even though she claims to have Registered a Climax with a Pantagraph.

The convention proved one thing and that is that the republicans are the worst split up set that ever tried to play for pie.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

—Missouri democrats in State convention sent 34 16 to 1 silverites to Chicago.

—Anderson was the only county in the Eighth district that went back on Bradley for McKinley.

—John H. Welch, of Jessamine, announces positively that he will not enter the Congressional race in this district.

—Dr. Hunter swung the 3d into line for McKinley, but he only did so by the skin of his teeth. The doctor's power seems to be on the wane.

—The Louisville Times publishes a list, which shows that the sound-money-Carlisle papers of Kentucky outnumber the silver sheets three to one.

—In the Fourth district the republican convention nominated Hon. J. W. Lewis for Congress and instructed for Bradley "first, last and always."

—Washington's State democratic convention endorsed Cleveland's administration, adopted a free-silver resolution, but sent an uninstructed delegation to Chicago.

—We have a pretty straight tip that Judge W. M. Catron, of Pulaski, is a candidate for Congress in this district. There is no better man than Judge Catron.—London Echo.

—Hon. Sam Pugh was renominated for Congress by the republicans of the Ninth district.

—The "Lily White" republicans of South Carolina resolved that McKinley, Reed, Quay, Allison or Morton would be acceptable to them, but never did a thing to Riot Alarm Bradley.

—The Kentucky advisory board of the A. P. A. decided that it would not be advisable for the order to endorse either Bradley or McKinley in the State convention, which was a McKinley victory.

—Bradley carried the 1st, 2d, 4th, 8th, 10th and 11th districts. McKinley took the 3d, 5th, 6th, 7th and 9th. The 10th gave second instructions for McKinley and appointed delegates personally for him.

—Hon. R. H. Tomlinson, of Garrard county, has announced himself as a candidate for delegate to the National Democratic convention. He is a good man, but has rather erratic ideas on currency questions.

—The 11th district instructed for Bradley without a second choice. Of the 17 counties, only Casey, Russell and Whitley sent opposing delegates. Bradley also got the 10th by the narrow margin of 10 votes.

—Senator Justin S. Morrill, who has been in the U. S. Senate from Vermont since 1867, celebrated his 80th birthday Tuesday. Before his election to the Senate he had been Congressman for a number of terms.

—A dispatch from Middleboro says the democrats of that section are unanimous in their choice for president, the Hon. John G. Carlisle being the man. There are only two free silver democrats in Middleboro, seven in Pineville and 25 in the entire county, and they are all for the great secretary.

—A vice president stands one chance in eight to succeed to the presidency. In all, men chosen as vice presidents have held the chief office no less than 13 years, 10 months and 13 days, or approximately one-eighth of the entire presidential term. There have been 23 presidents, one-sixth of whom have been accidental presidents.

—Mr. M. F. Brinkley writes to us from Oxford, Miss., in which State he has traveled since January, that a big majority of the people there are for free silver at 16 to 1, but that the business men nine out of every 10 want sound money and there is a hope that the grand old State of Mississippi will have a few sound money men in the National convention at Chicago on July 7th.

—Chairman Harry of the National Democratic Committee, says: "The indications are that the sound money men will prevail and be in a majority in the convention, although it is not to be lost sight of that the free silver men in the democratic party are vigorously and aggressively at work in order to have a free silver plank put in the platform."

—It is unofficially announced that the populists will add three new planks to their platform. The first will demand a cross between a lightning bug and honey bee, so that the bee may be enabled to work at night. The second will demand the breeding of the centipede with the hog, so that each pig may have 100 hams. The third will demand the building of strawberries on milk weed to the end that everybody who wants to can get strawberries and cream from the same bush.—Ex.

NEWSY NOTES.

—Two hundred natives were killed by an explosion of dynamite in Matabele land.

Bro. Walton:—Please hold the ears while I tell what Cooke's Sarsaparilla is. Well, it is not a mysterious compound of which the component parts are gathered in some far off, unheard of land; neither is it some LATE, SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY, made by unknown professors.

Cooke's Sarsaparilla is a remedy whose component parts are native roots and herbs, growing in the hills and valleys of Kentucky, which are gathered at their proper seasons by responsible hands. After cleansing, sorting and curing they are carefully dried for use. Their virtues are extracted by the latest scientific process known to pharmacy—by a pharmacist who has spent 18 years in the work of his chosen profession. For over a hundred years has it stood the test and to-day it stands before the public guaranteed to be the best blood purifier in the market. It is positively guaranteed to cure scrofula in any form. Its merit is shown by its growing popularity and in localities where long used you find the largest sales. Sold in Lincoln county by

If you love me, tell me so,
While the river's dreamy flow
Holds the love-enchanted hours,
Sleeping in music, crowned with flowers;

Vanish in the opal haze;
Ere is hushed the music flow—
If you love me, tell me so.
If you love me, tell me so,
Let me hear the sweet words low
Let me now, while life is fair,
Feel your kisses on my hair;
While in womanhood's first bloom,
Ere shall come dark days of gloom,
In the first fresh dawning glow—
If you love me, tell me so.

A SUBURBAN MYSTERY.

The purpose of this story is to clear up a suburban mystery and provide the last chapter which is to set at rest all speculation.

For more than two years the residents of Morton's Grove have been guessing at the cause of the tracks, and if they have not guessed correctly it is no discredit to them.

It was two years ago this last February, and on a certain evening toward the end of the month that a moist snow of big, lazy flakes began to fall upon the suburb of Morton's Grove.

There was hardly a breath of wind, and the snow sifted itself evenly and clinging wherever it touched.

There were but few trees in Morton's Grove. In the christening of the suburb the real estate Napoleon had anticipated that period when all the shrubs and switches would have their growth. Therefore the snow did not lose itself in tangled boughs, but settled peacefully on broad levels of lawn and steep pitches of roof. Except where a wall or fence stood bolt upright there was an unbroken mantle of white. Even every picket wore a plume and every fence-board a ruff.

The snowfall ceased at 11 o'clock, and by that time Morton's Grove was almost hushed for the night. The big wooden houses stood sparsely apart and were darker and more fantastic than ever against the white. One by one the windows winked themselves to darkness, and several hundred nice people slept, not realizing that a mystery was upon them.

If reports be true, the second Miss Eaton was the first to see the footprints.

She arose very early in the morning to reassure herself that the geraniums were far enough removed from the window and still not too near the base-burner. She walked to the window and looked across the snow at the dull, sealed houses across the way and the wiry bushes frozen in the front yard.

It was the gray of the dawn, and the shapes outside were not distinct, but when her eyes fell to the foreground she saw enough. First she stared in puzzled surprise, and then she moaned and ran to the stove to warm herself, still gazing at the window.

No wonder, indeed. This is what she had seen:

Large footprints, marking the course of a man, undoubtedly, who had come from the street to the very window at which she had been standing. That was not the worst of it. The footprints led from the street to the window, but there were no footprints from the window to the street.

What did that mean?

It meant that the man had come to the window but had not gone away. He had come through the window into the house! He was in the house at that moment!

There was a pit-a-pat of slipped feet on the stairway, and the second Miss Eaton gave a gasp and disconnected account of her discovery to the first Miss Eaton, who was still in bed.

The first Miss Eaton couldn't understand what was meant, but she became convulsed with fright, merely through sympathy.

Christine, the Swedish girl employed as a man-of-all-work for the maiden ladies, heard the noise and came to the rescue. She valorously clad herself and went through the house from end to end, lifting every coverlet behind which man or boy might have concealed himself.

There was no man in the house and there was no sign that any man had been there during the night, although Miss Eaton discovered, to her horror, that the snow on the window sill had been disturbed as if by a man crawling in at the window.

"What large tracks," shivered the first Miss Eaton as she surveyed the hideous trail across the front yard. "Oh!"

The tracks were rather large for a fact. A foot that measures 13 inches from heel to toe goes above any known average and is supposed to belong only in burlesque literature.

But these were real tracks.

The Eaton sisters, or the "Eaton girls" as they were still termed, out of compliment, stood together at the window after breakfast. They saw Mr. Ballard Johnson, who lived in the first house to the east, come along the sidewalk.

Occasionally he stopped and shook his head, and then he walked on with his eyes fixed on the snow-covered ground. The Eaton girls rushed to the door and the first Miss Eaton shouted: "Oh, Mr. Johnson, have you seen those tracks, too?"

He turned, apparently somewhat confused, and replied: "Have I? Why, those tracks lead up to my front window. I thought at first some one had got into the house. Did you ever see a man with feet as big as those tracks?"

"No, but they're real tracks. What I can't understand is how the man ever got away again after walking up to our window. My! I'm so scared."

"Well, I'm going to follow these tracks and see where they go to."

The first Miss Eaton closed the door, and Mr. Johnson continued to follow the trail, leaning forward like an alert Indian scout.

Mr. Johnson had not proceeded far before he met Mr. Morton, who discovered the suburb before the first house was built.

"Are you looking at these tracks?" inquired Morton.

"Yes. Have you noticed them?"

"They beat anything I ever saw. I traced them up the street from my house a little distance, and all at once they stopped. Come on and I'll show you."

They followed the big footprints around into Baldwin street and thence over a block to the north, and then suddenly the trail ended at a place where the snow had been kicked about as if men had scuffled there.

"This is where it started," said Johnson. "Now, let's see how far we can follow it the other way."

They went back along Baldwin street to where the tracks led over to Morton's house, the same as they had at the Eaton and Johnson places, but strange to say, the trail divided, one set of tracks leading over to Morton's house, the other continuing south on Baldwin street.

At Chester avenue the trail turned toward the Eaton house and continued to the east, although there was a side trail leading over to the Eaton house and another to Mr. Johnson's front window.

The two men followed the main line. From Chester avenue it turned into Miller street and came to an abrupt end near the Methodist church. There were other tracks of ordinary size to be seen, but at the point where the trail ended the man with the giant feet had evidently gone up into the air. The snow was badly kicked about. Perhaps there had been another struggle.

"According to the size of his feet," observed Mr. Morton, thoughtfully, "that man should have been 14 feet high. What do you think of it?"

"I simply give it up," said Mr. Johnson. "I never in all my life ran across anything like it. These are real tracks. You can see the marks of the nails and the print of the heel. But they begin nowhere and end nowhere. Here's a single trail and suddenly it splits into two trails going in different directions. One set of tracks goes right up to a window, and yet there's nothing to show that the man turned around and came back. He didn't go in the window, though. Now what the—"

"Don't ask me," said Mr. Morton.

At the station that morning the men talked of the strange tracks and not one could explain them except by bringing in a supernatural agent. And they never did find out.

And now for the solution of this story of mystery.

Bertrand Thompson, one of the livelier spirits of the quiet suburb, had been to town on the evening of the snowfall. At a small free-and-easy club which he often visited he had become acquainted with a well-known minstrel performer. The minstrel gave Thompson a pair of large shoes such as are often worn in burlesque pieces. He had promised them to Thompson long before and on this evening he brought them to the club.

Thompson reached Morton's Grove on the last night train. He started for home, the shoes wrapped up under his arm.

The snowfall had ceased and it was a clear night. He had taken a few drinks and was in an imaginative and creative state of mind. He saw the unmarked snow and it occurred to him that it might surprise people in the morning if they saw tracks 13 inches long.

He leaped against a fence and changed his shoes after some difficulty and then marched homeward.

When he came in front of Morton's house a brilliant idea came to him. He walked over to the front window of the house and then with extreme caution backed his way out to the street again, taking care to put the big shoes back in the footprints already made.

Then he took up his homeward journey again, but he thought of the Eaton girls, so he favored them with a special set of footprints, and afterward did as much for Mr. Johnson, whom he disliked very much.

When he reached the Methodist church corner he realized that he might be tracked to his home, so he changed shoes again, with a great deal of hopping around in the snow to keep from losing his balance while he was standing on one foot.

When he learned how successful his experiment had been he kept quiet, and allowed the tale of the monster footprints to become a suburban classic.—Chicago Record.

THE UNDER EARTH.

Man's Dependence Upon Products Beneath the Surface.

So slow was the advance in the utilization of the earth's products that when our ancestors first came to this country there were not more than about 20 substances other than building stones or gems which were won to commerce from the under earth. These were scantily used; the amount of iron required per capita each year probably did not exceed five pounds, and the amount of coal consumed was even less. At present the annual consumption of iron in this country amounts to about 250 pounds, and of coal to more than 1½ tons per head. The number of earth materials and their immediate products which enter into the arts is to be reckoned by the hundreds; each year the number augments with surprising rapidity. Measured by the quantity of the materials won from the depths, the civilized man to-day, as compared with his ancestors in the time of Queen Elizabeth, has increased his dependence on the under earth by not less than 50 fold.—Prof. N. S. Shaler, Sc. D., in Chautauquan.

His Compliment.

"Miss Cayenne paid me a compliment last night," said Willie Washington. "One of the sort she makes a specialty. She told me she thought I had a pleasant disposition."

"How did she know?"

"That's what I asked her. She said anyone could see that I was easy to please by the way in which I laughed at some of my own remarks."—Washington Star.

Her Custom.

Old Lady (in drug store)—D'y'e know, young man, I've stood here like a non-nutrient fer over ten minnits fer somebody to wait on me? If ye can't hire clerks enough, I'll go somewhere else.

Young Man (humbly)—Sorry, ma'am, but we're very busy. I am at your disposal now; what can I do for you?

Charles—Didn't refer to that kind of fire; been going through the other kind ever since you married me!—To Date.

Perhaps She Cried.

Said little Fannie Chaffie: "Mamma, this is the place where some little girls were walking, and one of them fell down and hurt herself, and they all laughed except me."

"And why didn't you laugh, Fannie?" "Because I was the little girl that fell down and hurt herself."—Texas Sifter.

A Premature Discussion.

Miss Flighly—Have you decided to take any part in the discussion: "What will we do in Heaven?"

Good Minister—No, miss. I am at present much more interested in the question: "What shall we do to get there?"—N. Y. Weekly.

Which Accounted for It.

"After that," remarked the young slim who had been telling an insane ghost story, "my mind was a blank."

"That accounts for it," commented a sharp young woman, and there was an interregnum of profound silence.—Truth.

DRY GOODS QUEENS.

MOST RESPONSIBLE AND BEST PAID WOMEN'S WORK.

Celia Logan Writes of Buyers and Drummers Among the Fair Sex—They Must Be Keen and Farsighted For Bargains and Coming Styles.

(Copyright, 1895, by the Author.)

EARLY in the thirties the Le Boutillier Bros. of New York first tried the experiment in this country of employing saleswomen in the dry goods business, hoping that the reduction in wages would enable them to undersell their rival, A. T. Stewart. The cunning Scotchman slyly allowed them to continue without seeming to notice until the Frenchmen proved their innovation a success, when he simply followed suit, and even went further in their experiment by sending women on the road as drummers. In this branch they failed, not from incapacity, but because the newness of the idea made country dealers shy and awkward in bartering with women, but the novelty and embarrassment have long been relegated to the past, and "lady drummers" are now as plentiful as successful.

When women first entered the business, they were considered capable of selling only insignificant articles, such as those on the "notion" counter, and handkerchiefs and stockings. The highest weekly pay of the ordinary pioneer shopgirl was $5. That is the lowest sum a saleswoman now receives. The scale ascends to $40, but this sum includes other duties beyond that of selling, such as those, for example, belonging to the "head" of a department.

Men only were trusted with the buying of goods until the shrewd Stewart conceived the idea of introducing ready made dresses into his establishment. He placed a young modiste at the head of this department and sent her twice a year to Paris to buy goods. This was the first woman buyer. She is still alive, and well known to New Yorkers as Mme. Couquely.

From the small beginning at the thread and thimble counter woman has penetrated into almost every ramification of this great business, and of all the multitudinous positions held by her that of buyer is the most responsible and the best paid. It is also the most secure, for, while the mere saleswoman is liable to be discharged at any moment, or at best to have her pay reduced in dull seasons, the buyer, as a rule, has a contract of one, two or even three years, duration.

This is made more in the interest of the employer than of the employee, because women buyers are scarce, and in such general demand that they can always command situations. The smallest annual salary paid to a woman buyer is $2,500, the largest $10,000, but this is exceptional, the average being $5,000. She receives no commissions, but all her expenses are paid.

The pay of the male buyer is invariably in excess of that of the woman, for no discernible reason beyond the accidental one of sex, since the qualities that go to make the successful buyer must be identical in both persons, as are also the duties and responsibilities. A number of qualities are indispensable to the buyer. In addition to natural ability in that peculiar direction, a woman must have long experience, good judgment, excellent taste and great tact in dealing with people. She must be bold and self confident enough to seize upon any and every novel article that she fancies will prove a "quick seller." She must possess a perfect knowledge of the value of the goods submitted to her, and be quick witted and shrewd in bargaining for them. Every firm expects a certain rate of profit upon the money a buyer has invested. This must be determined at the period of "stock taking" which usually occurs twice a year—in January and July—when the buyer must show the amount of profit for the season of six months. If less than expected, it proves that the goods have not been judiciously purchased or too many for the demand, and they have to be reduced and "worked off" at bargain sales at a loss to the house.

A buyer must be on the constant lookout for novelties and eternally vigilant lest some other establishment gets ahead of the one she represents. She must be diligent and persevering, and, unlike the male buyer, absolute sobriety is demanded of her.

She, however, outnumbers him, in proof of which it will be sufficient to quote but one great metropolitan house with a staff of 37 buyers, 26 of whom are women. In all establishments they buy the clothing worn by women and by children of both sexes. They buy the fancy goods, jewelry, bric-a-brac, lace, glassware, house furnishings, goods, millinery, cloaks, wraps, perfumery, books, stationery and frequently silks and velvets. In short, women buy everything except men's clothing and such goods as require no taste in selection, such as cloths, shirtings, sheetings, muslins, flannels and other wools. The sale of such cumbersome goods is also made wholly by men.

As made up goods are purchased from four to six months before they are placed on sale, a buyer must be able almost to feel what the styles of the future will be when "selecting samples"—as the models are called, after which are made the gowns and other garments to be sold the ensuing season. The risk is especially great in the buying of furs, as it is hardly possible to foresee or even to conjecture just what kind of fur may take the feminine fancy half a year after purchases are made, or what freak of some foreign leader of fashion may cause totally unexpected changes in the shape or material of fur garments, thereby throwing on the dealer's hands a quantity of expensive and out of date stock, which is too valuable and too unsalable to be "worked off" at a loss at the bargain counters and by "special sales." All that can be done is to hold over the stock till the fashion swings around to it again, which it is sure to do if one can but wait long enough.

If a buyer thinks that a certain style of anything will please shoppers, she gives a large order for it; if in doubt, a very small one. The book buyer, for instance, will not buy more than a dozen copies of a new author's book. If that number sells quickly, she feels safe in repeating and increasing the order.

The selection and ordering of gowns, etc., take place either in the upper rooms of the dry goods house or in those of the manufacturer, who submits to the buyer the models he has received from that head center and originator of modes, Paris. But by no means is all accepted that is sent.

It is known in the French capital that American women will not blindly follow any fashion, however popular abroad, and the caterers to the American trade therefore submit to our dictation; consequently many a style supposed to be strictly Parisian was made at the suggestion of metropolitan manufacturers or of our women buyers.

In addition to this method of obtaining the latest modes, a foreign buyer is attached to every large dry goods house. She goes twice yearly to Europe and purchases whatever she thinks will prove attractive to the American market. To a woman fond of travel and its changes of scene the position of foreign buyer is even more agreeable than that of the home buyer, though both are so enviable as to make them veritable queens of trade. Their employers have confidence in their judgment, giving them authority to dispose of large sums.

Their collaborators defer to them and tradesmen contend for their patronage. If they make a mistake in buying goods, the loss is not theirs, but that of the firm they represent. Moreover, their success is achieved while they are still young enough to enjoy its emoluments and pleasures. But since buyers are not born so, how are they made? As a rule, by evolution from the most humble condition in the whole business—that of cashgirl at a weekly pay of about $2. A very young girl will soon display ability if possessed of any. It will be no less quickly recognized, encouraged and rewarded by promotion, and so, step by step, slowly along the whole line of progression, from promotion to promotion to now one, now the other department, she advances until by the time she reaches womanhood she has learned the business from the ground up. She thus becomes an expert saleswoman, and may be placed in charge of certain stock or made assistant to a buyer, being referred to as principal in the absence of her superior. She has fitted herself for the position which she usually obtains when a vacancy occurs through resignation, sickness, death or other vicissitude or reason for retirement of the head employee. Or a new department may be opened of which she is made the buyer.

Most ladies when shopping will have noticed headhanded, half grown girls busily matching a bunch of samples; they are very particular in getting the shade and texture exactly like the pattern, and when satisfied they order the goods to be "sent up." These are the buyers of the future who are now insensibly learning that branch of the business. The samples are those sent at the opening of every season by the large establishments to their out of town customers, who select from the samples the material of which they order dresses made up. The dressmakers' time is too valuable to be wasted in matching goods, so their small assistants are assigned the task. But all buyers do not graduate from the cashgirl class.

Many an inexperienced girl cuts a store as a mere "extra" during a holiday rush, but displays such aptitude for the occupation that she is offered a permanent place. Skill and experience lead to promotion, and she, too, rises until she may be brought very near the buyer, into whose shoes she easily slips when opportunity presents them for her use.

To the buyer is due almost all the great "bargain" sales. From time to time she goes through her stock, sorting out certain goods which have remained, contrary to expectation, rather long on hand. These are placed on the bargain tables, marked down to half what they cost.

A firm of merchants contemplating the purchase of a bankrupt stock usually send their buyers to look over it in bulk and value it. Sometimes the sale is effected without this by the respective lawyers of the contracting parties. The stock when delivered is distributed among the various departments to which it belongs, the buyers fixing the prices, often much below the actual value of the articles. The object is not so much to make money on the bankrupt stock itself as by the advertisement to attract an extraordinary crowd to the store, one inside of which a woman is likely to make all her purchases there. To give a shopper no excuse for leaving the premises is the reason why lunch counters and restaurants were introduced into many of our immense dry goods houses. Shrewd appreciation of the nature of feminine humanity has proved a source of large revenue to enterprising merchants dealing with women.

SHORTEST ROUTE TO LOUISVILLE.—The distance from Lexington to Louisville has been greatly shortened by the Shelbyville "cut off," just completed. O. & O. trains leaving Lexington at 8:15 A. M. and 6:05 P. M., daily, reach Louisville at 11:00 A. M. and 8:50 P. M., two hours and 45 minutes. The C. & O. now has the shortest line between Lexington and Louisville, is the only line with double daily, limited vestibuled train service. Frankfort and Shelbyville are the only points at which these trains stop.

An Affidavit.

This is to certify that on May 11th I walked to Mellick's drug store on a pair of crutches and bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm for inflammatory rheumatism which had crippled me up. After using three bottles I am completely cured. I can cheerfully recommend it—Chas. H. Wetzel, Sunbury, Pa.

Sworn and subscribed to before me on August 10, 1896, Walter Sherman, J. P.

For sale at 50 cents per bottle by Craig & Hocker, Stanford, Ky.

During the winter of 1895, F. M. Martin, of Long Beach, West Va., contracted a severe cold which left him with a cough. In speaking of how he cured it he says: "I used several kinds of coughs but found Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved me almost instantly, and in a short time brought about a complete cure." When troubled with a cough or cold use this remedy and you will not find it necessary to try several kinds before you get relief. It has been in market for over 20 years and constantly grows in favor and popularity.

For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by Craig & Hocker, Stanford, Ky.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Mo., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she is again happy.

Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tired without result every thing else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such a relief of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at W. B. McKelvey's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.

Bucklin's Arnica Salve

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sore throats, salt rheum, fever sores, itchy, itchy hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions. It positively cures piles, or so pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by W. B. McKelvey, drugist.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of cholera to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear.

New sleeping car line from Lexington. On April 1st the C. & O. R. R. put on a through sleeper to Washington on F. F. V. train leaving Louisville at 8:30 A. M., and Lexington 11:25 A. M. daily. Arriving at Washington 6:30 A. M. and New York 12:50 noon next day. Returning train leaves New York 8 A. M., Washington 2:25 P. M., and arrives at Lexington 8 A. M. and Louisville 11:15 A. M. This arrangement gives the people of Lexington and Central Kentucky two daily sleeping car lines each way and three hours quickest time to all Eastern Cities.

RESTAURANT.—Mr. D. Hall, after being in the employment of the C. S. as an assistant agent at Junction City for the past seven years, has opened a first-class restaurant opposite the depot at that place and invites his friends to call and see him.

WE have received from the composer, Mr. Charles W. Kremer, of Louisville, the "Tattler Two Step" dedicated to Miss Elvira Sydnor Miller, of the Times, which musicians pronounce a very fine production. A splendid half tone engraving of Miss Miller appears on the title page.

SOME people hereabout must think it is more respectable to be a republican than it used to be. At least some are taking an active part, who formerly held themselves aloof from the crowd who ran the machine in this county. It is another proof that nothing succeeds like success.

LEG BROKE.—The wife of Will Brown, who is in jail for the numerous robberies committed in and around Stanford, started to town to bring him some clean clothes. Her horse became frightened while coming down the Somerset hill and she was thrown to the ground, breaking the large bone of one of her ankles.

THE young ladies who are getting up the Madam Jarley Wax Works entertainment tell us that it is going to be the funniest thing ever seen at Wallop's Opera House and that hypochondriacs and hysterical persons need not come unless they want to be cured of every ill that flesh is heir to, either real or imaginary, and made to laugh and grow fat.

SHERIFF NEWLAND nabbed Gustave Kotschewer yesterday as he was preparing to leave for Louisville, on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Gette charging him with maliciously shooting her dog. The young German was fearfully excited, but said he did it because the canine killed his porcine. He will have a hearing before Squire A. G. Faulkner to-day.

ZIGLER shoes are the best, most comfortable and most stylish. They are sold at Shanks'.

DIRT for the big reservoir was broken at the water works yesterday and it is to be completed in 60 days.

FOR SALE.—Two wagonettes, one carrying 10 and the other 16 passengers. Also three drummers' wagons, cheap. M. S. & J. W. Baughman.

THE public school will close a very successful term to-day. Miss Jennie West, the principal, will begin a select school next Monday, to last six weeks.

W. J. FIELDS had a writ sworn out for Mr. James Robinson, of the Hubble section, a few days ago, charging him with setting his dogs on cattle belonging to the first named. He will be tried Saturday.

THE Danville Advocate tells of the assignment of Contractor John A. Lytle for $20,000, but the water works people here say it will not figure in the fulfillment of his contract to build the reservoir.

TO CONTRACTORS.—Bids are advertised for this issue for the new Methodist church near Walnut Flat. It is to be 48 feet in length, 32 wide, with 16 feet ceiling. Call at this office and see plans and specifications.

THAT houses are in demand here is shown in the fact that Mr. J. C. Florence, who is building a cottage West of his store, had it rented to Train Dispatcher O. A. Moore several weeks before he broke dirt for it.

A STANFORD College excursion to Mammoth Cave, just after commencement, is already being arranged. The L. & N. and the cave people have made especially low rates and the probability is that a large crowd will go, as any reputable person is invited. For further particulars see Mrs. Nannie Sauley or any of the teachers.

THE beautiful Spring weather continues and vegetation is lumping itself. Some of the trees are in full leaf and the hills and dales are covered with a rich carpet of verdure. Gardening, planting corn and sowing oats seem to engage nine-tenths of the population and garden peas, oat meal and corn bread will be cheap if nothing happens.

THE house in Macksville occupied by Annie Scott and Maria Robinson, colored, and owned by Mayor J. N. Menefee, caught fire from a lamp Monday night and but for the timely aid of the neighbors it would have burned. One report is that the lamp exploded, while another is that it was kicked over by a drunken woman who was at the house on a visit.

LIVERY SALE.—Mr. George B. Cooper has sold to M. S. & J. W. Baughman his livery business, lock, stock and barrel, for $1,650. The purchasers have moved the stock, buggies, &c., to their stable, but have rented the stable formerly occupied by Mr. Cooper and will have it open on all public days. Mr. Cooper lost money during his livery experience of 15 months, notwithstanding he had a liberal patronage, but he was green at the business and his lesson has been a costly one. The Baughmans now have the largest stable in the country and ought to do a big business. They understand it and keep fine turnouts.

YOUTHFUL RECKLESS.—Three Hustonville boys, Frank Lusk, Lewis Pinkerton and Len Taylor, foraged around and got enough rations for a week or two, and then set out to make their way in the world, in true dime novel style. They went to a cave on Dix River, where they proposed to stay till school was over and then tramp to Missouri. But the best laid plans often fail, for friends of the boys instituted search for them and after a day or two had them marching home. Taylor and Lusk were forced to walk from Danville to Hustonville, a distance of 12 miles, and when they got home they were willing to swear that they would never leave it again. We haven't heard to what extent their jackets were dusted on their return.

COULTER.—Mr. J. O. Coulter, one of the cleverest men and best democrats in the "State of Casey," was here Wednesday and told us of his wonderfully well preserved father, Mr. John S. Coulter, who celebrated his 80th birthday a few days ago. The old gentleman is in fine health, as lively as a cricket and he only a day or so ago shot and killed a hawk without the use of spectacles. He is a fine marksman and was to be unto anything that he levels a gun at. Mr. Coulter expressed his regret at Casey county's loss of Messrs. Mac Wheat and John McDaniel, two excellent gentlemen and working democrats, who have recently moved to this county. Lincoln, he says, ought to go democratic with ease with them at the wheel. For every democrat who leaves Casey, he says, two republicans take his place and there is no hope for democracy there.

J. H. BAUGHMAN & Co. are preparing to build a cottage on Mill street next to Ed Wilkinson's. Mr. U. S. Traylor, their engineer, will occupy it.

COL. HOON continues to boom his "Black Diamond Railroad" and is interesting capitalists in the scheme. The colouel means business and we trust his dream will not prove Utopian.

CONSTABLE T. W. BAILEY delivered Hannibal Givens, colored, over to Miller DelBorde yesterday. He was tried before Judge Cannitz at Hustonville for breaking into Charles Wheeler's store and held over till circuit court.

BOTH FEET CUT OFF.—Yesterday when George Wiseman, an 18-year-old tramp, who claims Hamilton, O., as his home, attempted to jump from No. 37, as it passed Junction City, he was jerked under the wheels and had both feet cut off. He was stealing a ride.

OWING to the accident suffered by Miss Georgia Lewis, the Madam Jarley Wax Works exhibition, has been postponed till Friday night, 24th. The price of admission will be 25, 35 and 50c, the latter for reserved seats, which are on sale at W. B. McKibben's drug store.

THE latest scheme to work the farmer is for a traveling salesman to go to him and sell him goods to be shipped from some city, the payment to be made in eggs at a higher than the market price. To make it all straight and right, the farmer gives his note for the goods and the traveling man gives him for the eggs. The goods and salesman are never seen after, but the farmer's note turns up at the bank.

MIDDLEBURG.—Jason Wesley, who was here from Middleburg yesterday, tells us that the firm of J. H. Allen & Bro., of that place, has dissolved, and that Mr. Linn Allen will return to his home in Pulaski. J. H. Allen will continue the business. Theo. Wesley has moved into his new store-room and with a fine girl at his house he is kept busy both day and night. Mrs. Nancy Hatter, who has been ill for some time, died the first of the week.

COL. T. P. HILL made an address before the law class of Centre College a few days ago. The common law was the subject of the lecture, and the speaker, in a masterly, fluent and lucid manner, says the Advocate, reviewed its history, science and broad application. Col. Hill prefaced and concluded his remarks with strong and emphatic treatment of the elements and qualities of true manhood—Christianity, punctuality, industry, honesty and economy—so essential to a successful and honorable career.

THE doctors took the town yesterday and held it at their own sweet will. The Central Kentucky Medical Association held its quarterly meeting in Walton's Opera House and was called to order by Dr. J. B. Kinnaird, president, with Secretary Dr. Steele Bailey at his post. Dr. Pittman read a paper on Acute Nephritis, which was the subject of a general discussion. Dr. Price made the report on Obstetrics and Gynecology. Dr. Pope on Waking Numbness and Dr. Dunlap that on Ante Partum Pelvic Abscess. Those present were Drs. H. Brown, Hustonville; A. D. Price, H. Plummer, A. D. Powell, J. Thomas Price, Harrodsburg; J. M. Meyer, J. M. Dalton, H. M. Pittman, Fayette Enlap, Danville; J. B. Kinnaird, Lancaster; C. M. Thompson, Kingsville; P. Stannard Bohon, Curran Pope, Louisville; W. A. Carrier, Wilmore; S. C. Perkins, Bee Lick; Ed M. Estes, McKinney; J. W. Wesley, Middleburg; Steele Bailey, J. G. Carpenter, J. F. Peyton, L. B. Cook and W. B. O'Bannon, Stanford, and Dr. G. A. Traylor, Habbie. The afternoon was taken up in discussion of the papers read at the morning session and at 3 o'clock the meeting adjourned. The association will convene next at Harrodsburg on the 3d Thursday in July, when Dr. L. B. Cook, of this place, will open the discussion on Cholera Infantum, and Dr. J. M. Dalton will read the report of the section on the practice of medicine. The visitors were dined by the local doctors at the St. Asaph, which had a fine spread.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

McKINNEY.

—Frank and Allen Hunn are building an addition to Mr. G. D. McCarlin's dwelling house.

—V. D. Kennedy, the popular mill man, has built for himself a new house here that is quite an attraction.

—Cal Givens, a negro, was arrested here Tuesday by Constable Bailey and taken to Hustonville where he's wanted for breaking into Charles Wheeler's store.

—Mack Williams, night operator at McKinney, went home last week and brought his violin back with him and now he awakes the echoes of the night in and around the depot.

—Jesse Rount has moved into the house lately occupied by Jim Brown. Logan Green, who went to Wilmore to live, has come back to Lincoln to stay with his mother. Mr. Joe Smith has the flux.

—Rev. T. H. Campbell, of Lancaster, was in town Wednesday and conducted the prayer meeting. He talked more especially to the young people, who go to church to laugh and talk and spit tobacco juice over the floor.

—The trial of Milton Reynolds came off last Saturday to decide who was the owner of the horse that Mr. R. go gallantly defended a few days since with knife and gun. The jury decided it was joint property and so rendered the verdict.

—Judge Catron, the delegate in Congress from New Mexico, has beat the record in the populism business by appointing one of his own sons as a cadet at West Point and another as a cadet at Annapolis. In order that they may both have two chances in case they should fail to pass in their examinations each is named as an alternate for the other.

—The world's record on long tunnels will be beaten by Colorado, as arrangements are about complete to make a tunnel through Pike's Peak, a distance of 48 miles. The estimated cost of this tunnel is $20,000,000 and the time required 10 years.

—While brooding over the idea that his family would suffer from want, John Lehman, of Chicago, shot his three children to death and then after trying to hang himself and failing, sent a bullet through his heart.

—Miss Elizabeth Trowbridge, a prominent young woman of Elgin, Ill., was shot and killed there by Mary Linnette, of Chicago, who was insanely in love with her. Miss Linnette then killed herself.

—It was 31 years ago Tuesday night that J. Wilkes Booth fired the shot from the effects of which at 7 o'clock next morning the illustrious Lincoln died, never having regained consciousness.

—It is now said that murderer Holmes will join the Catholic church.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

OF STANFORD, KY.

Capital Stock.....$100,000

Surplus.....23,700

Attention of the public is invited to the fact that this is the only National Bank in Stanford. Under the provisions of the National Bank Act, depositors are secured not only by the capital stock, but by the stockholders' liability for an amount equal to the stock, so that depositors of this institution are secured by a fund of $100,000. Five sworn statements of the condition of the bank are made each year to the United States government and its assets are examined at stated times by government agents, thus securing additional and perfect safety to depositors.

This institution, originally established as the Deposit Bank of Stanford in 1855, then re-organized as the National Bank of Stanford in 1863 and again re-organized as the First National Bank of Stanford in 1884, has had practically an uninterrupted existence of 35 years. It is better supplied now with facilities for transacting business promptly and as liberally than ever before in its long and honorable career. Accounts of corporations, educators, firms and individuals respectfully solicited.

The Directory of this Bank is composed of
